L&T CMD Mr S N Subrahmanyam (SNS) has been conferred the acclaimed Dr Kirit Parikh Award by the Engineering Council of India (ECI) for his outstanding contribution to the industry.

A high-level jury chaired by Dr R A Mashelkar (former Secretary - Department of Scientific & Industrial Research, GoI), chose SNS unanimously from among many other engineering luminaries. The prestigious award was conferred at the opening session of ECI's National Conference in New Delhi on 29 April.

L-R: Dr P R Swarup (Director General – Construction Industry Development Council), Dr Kirit Parikh (Chairman - Integrated Research & Action for Development), Dr Uddesh Kohli (Chairman – Engineering Council of India), Mr Tushar Bahl (DGM – Corporate Affairs, L&T) and Mr Sumeet Chatterjee (VP & Head – Corporate Brand Management & Communications, L&T).

As prior commitments prevented SNS from being present at the function, the award was received on his behalf by Mr Sumeet Chatterjee (VP & Head – Corporate Brand Management & Communications) at the hands of Dr Kirit Parikh (Chairman - Integrated Research & Action for Development) and other dignitaries.

In a recorded speech, SNS said that he was humbled to have been bestowed the award and thanked ECI and the eminent jury for unanimously choosing him for the coveted honour. He stated that in selecting him, ECI has actually honoured L&T's engineers and workers who make the many record-breaking engineering marvels that make India proud.

ECI was founded in 2002 by professional organisations/institutions of engineers to work for the advancement of the profession. ECI bestows the Award on individuals who have distinguished themselves in the industry and in research & consultancy.
